Detailed Action

Specification

1. The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: Of the "Revised Specification": Of the continuation of paragraph [0008] on page 2, line 8 "ofr" should be "for".

Appropriate correction is required.

Claim Objections

2. Claim 4 is objected to because of the following informalities: in line 4 "handger" should be "hanger". Appropriate correction is required.
3. Claim 4 is objected to under 37 CFR 1.75(c), as being of improper dependent form for failing to further limit the subject matter of a previous claim. Applicant is required to cancel the claim(s), or amend the claim(s) to place the claim(s) in proper dependent form, or rewrite the claim(s) in independent form. Claim 4 is dependent off of cancelled claim 3.

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

1. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

2. Claims 1,2,6 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hessert (2,337,161) in view of Metz (4,198,872).

The Hessert reference discloses an ice cream dispenser having a container (C) with a central part (40) for storing ice cream, a side part (see fig.1) for storing cooling substance (pg.2, col.1, lines 58-62; by refrigerated gas), a partition board (23), a cover (11,16) of the container (C) with a hole (see fig.1), an activation device (66,76,72,78), an activation axis (see fig.1, along the screw groove), an activation plate (76), a screw groove (72), a discharge pipe (rear part of tube that is connected to the bottom of the central part) that forms a hole (the aperture from the container to the discharge pipe), discharge outlet (see fig.1), tube (34), a motor (66), a switch (80), a battery (see fig.1), a lever (75), and a support (10). Also the Hessert reference discloses the functional language claimed limitations.

However the Hessert reference lacks a ball bearing that engages with the screw groove.

The Metz reference teaches a ball bearing (16) that engages the shaft screw groove (12) for the purpose of providing proper alignment of the shaft screw as it moves upward and downward.

Therefore it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have reasonably modified the Hessert's device with a ball bearing to engage the screw groove as taught by Metz in order to "operate with a minimum of wear between the various moving parts" (col.1, lines 8&9).

3. Claims 4 and 5 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Hessert in view of Metz as applied to claim 1 above, and further in view of Bowers (3,987,869) and Oys (2,350,184).

The Hessert and Metz references disclose substantially all the structure and functionality of the invention. However both references lack a hanger part, case for cone cups and a strap.

The Bowers reference teaches a lubrication system having a dispensing tube (32) and a hanger part (see fig.1) for the purpose of storing the dispensing tube away when not in use. Also the Bowers reference discloses a pair of shoulder straps (3) for the purpose of being able to "transport the system on the user's back" (col.1, line 56).

The Oys reference teaches a portable drinking fountain having a case (22) attached to the drinking fountain container (2) containing cone cups (24) for the purpose of having these cone cups "readily removed therefrom one at a time" for drinking purposes (pg.2, col.1, lines 37&38).

Therefore it would have been obvious to one having ordinary skill in the art at the time of the invention to have reasonably modified the Hessert and Metz devices with a hanger part and straps as taught by Bowers and a case attach to the container for cone cups as taught by Oys in order to provide a convenient and consolidated way for the user to transport and readily dispense contents in individual containers at any given time; and storage dispensing tube when not dispensing.

4. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-6 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.
5. Applicant's amendment necessitated the new ground(s) of rejection presented in this Office action. Accordingly, THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. See MPEP § 706.07(a). Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the date of this final action.
